Lageplan:

An aerial photograph of a residential neighborhood. A blue line is drawn across the image, likely indicating a specific lot or boundary. The image shows several houses, trees, and streets. A compass rose is located in the top left corner, indicating North (N), South (S), East (E), and West (W). The blue line starts near the top center and extends diagonally towards the bottom right. The surrounding area includes various residential lots, some with houses and others with trees or open space. The overall scene is a typical suburban residential area.
